

BOTSWANA

VS

KENYA

1. Getting there	You'll need to connect via South Africa.	Easily connected with international flights from Europe / USA / Australia.
2. Internal travel	Spend less time travelling between safari areas, Botswana wins with its short bush flights.	Kenya's parks are further apart, meaning longer transfers.
3. Wildlife	Choose Botswana for elephants and wild dogs.	Choose Kenya for the Great Migration, big cats and rhino.
4. Safari activities	Offers the greatest variety—from makomo safaris, heli flips and boating to walking safaris.	Hot-air balloon flights and exceptional game drives.
5. Cultural aspect	Offers a cultural aspect but it's not the focus.	Kenya has the advantage with its Masasai and Samburu communities.
6. Budget & style	Botswana focuses on smaller, more exclusive camps.	Kenya caters for every budget.
7. When to go?	April and November.	Between July and October.
8. How safe are they?	Both are exceptionally safe with highly trained guides and excellent safari operators.
9. Overall experience	Remote, immersive wilderness adventure with fewer people.	Africa's classic safari combined with incredible culture and iconic wildlife.
