TANZANIA

NORTH VS SOUTH

The Wildlife	The iconic (seasonal) Wildebeest Migration	10% of the Worlds Lion Population & Highest concentration of Wild dog
Accessibility	Has a well established road network for easy access to the main parks	Scheduled Safari flights get you to the remote areas easily
Best Season	Peak season is June through October: it has the driest, mildest weather and the lowest malaria risk.	The June to October dry season, and even though it is peak season, there will be few other visitors
Which costs more?	Easier to access, a competitive market and with options for vehicle-based safaris, generally less expensive	Although the Southern circuit relies on flying between destinations, the park & concession fees are much lower
Exclusivity	The total visitors tally for 2025 was over 500 000 in the Serengeti	Katavi National Park had 1200 visitors for the whole year
Atmosphere	Mainly wide open plains, except for Ngorogoro Crater	Varied landscapes that one can experience in a single game drive
Accommodation options	Wide selection of Luxury hotels, boutique lodges, and Midrange properties	Selections of Deluxe, Luxury and Midrange lodges
Overall experience	The classic, comprehensive Tanzania experience, but usually with many other visitors	A more adventurous and exclusive perspective of the country
